

WRITING IN COLOR FEST

AUGUST 16-17

Join us at Lighthouse Writers Workshop for Writing in Color Fest—an annual event designed to provide a space for writers of color to be in community and thrive as they grow their writing skills. Writing in Color Fest is open to writers of all genres and creatives who identify as Black, Indigenous, or People of Color (BIPOC+). Our experienced faculty and guest instructors will work closely with you to support your writing process before we gather in the evening for free community events.

Techniques to Writing with Steven Dunn

LUNCHTIME ACTIVITY

12:00 to 1:00 PM

WRITE AND CHILL

Invite your friends and try out some informal writing time as a group; we'll have space for you to get together and write using Writing in Color journals and generative prompts provided by Lighthouse. Together you'll explore what it's like to be in a writing group and share positive feedback to each other's work. Not feeling social? Come chill! We'll have cozy corners set up for those who'd like to enjoy their lunch with some casual silent reading time.
